Personal Readiness Questionnaire

I. Why do you want to be a Structural Medicine Specialist™?

2. What do you consider your three major accomplishments in life?

A)
B)
$\sim$
()

3. As a Structural Medicine Specialist you will be an independent businessperson solely responsible for the success of your business, including promotion, scheduling, marketing, money management, etc. Please discuss how prepared you feel to undertake the responsibility for your own business, what prior experience you have to call upon, and what you consider to be your weaknesses and strengths in this regard. Please rate your overall readiness to deal with this responsibility on a I-10 scale, where I0 = outstanding: ______ .

4. As a SMS,™ you may be working with people of all ages who have a variety of backgrounds, personal histories, and personal problems. People may experience a wide variety of emotional or physical reactions during sessions including anger, sadness, joy and physical or emotional discomfort. It is important that you possess the ability, desire and emotional maturity to work intimately with others. Please discuss what life experience and personal traits you have that indicate your ability to handle these types of situations. Include any concerns that you have in this area. Rate your overall capability in this area on a 1–10 scale: _______.

5. As a practitioner, you will physically work with people's bodies. Please discuss your experience with and your feelings about working with people in this manner.

6. As a practitioner you will use your body in an active way. Describe your body, what lessons you have learned from it, and how you feel it will support your work as a practitioner. Please rate your overall physical readiness on a 1–10 scale: ______.

7. What bodywork or movement work have you personally experienced? What were the results?

8. Although there is growing acceptance for this type of work, Structural Medicine Specialists™ are still "pioneers" advancing the field of bodywork, so to speak. This demands initiative, confidence, and most of all commitment. Discuss what this means to you and why you feel you will be successful. Please rate your overall readiness in this area on a 1–10 scale: ______.

9. Undertaking a major career change often requires the support of others in one's life. Discuss how your close family and friends feel about your choice and what you can expect from them.

10. What might be your greatest potential strengths and weakness as a future Structural Medicine Specialist™ practitioner?

II. Please discuss any concerns and/or questions you have about becoming a Structural Medicine Specialist™?

12. Have you read and do you clearly understand all of the provisions of the licensing agreement with the Institute of Structural Medicine? Are you in agreement with the principles involved in this contract? Please elaborate on any issues that you currently have, if any.

13. Are there any issues, thoughts, or attitudes that have kept you from having the life you desire, with regards to all aspects of your life? Are you "stuck" in any way? If so, please elaborate and be as specific as possible.

14. The field of Structural Medicine and the Institute of Structural Medicine school programs are about passion and love for the work and our clients. What personal gifts do you possess that you think you will contribute to the class, your clients, and the field of Structural Medicine? What makes you "tick"? What gives you "juice"?

15. Life and the ISM training program are also about FUN and joy and dance and movement and laughter. What do YOU do for fun? What part does fun have (or not have) in your life?

16. Are there any medical issues that are of concern or something our staff should know about, should you become a student in our training program (medications, treatment for depression, psychological conditions, medical conditions? You will be spending 15 days at a time at the intensives, so your health is important. There will also be intimate times with the other students as you open up and delve deeper into your being and full potential.

17. Imagine that it is ten years from now. Write a brief "curriculum vitae" outlining what you have accomplished in the last ten years (what IS your life ten years from now). "Hand" write this answer, not your "head"... go inside... let it flow. Use the back or a separate sheet of paper if you need more space.
